

Vikram Khurana, president and CEO, Prudential Consulting Inc., and his wife, Shalini.

Vasu and Jaya Chanchlani.

Ron Rosenthal, president, Royce Metal Products, and his wife, Cyndi.

Ramesh Chotai, co-chair, Canada-India Foundation, and president, Bromed Pharmaceuticals, and his wife, Krishna.

Vasu Chanchlani and Bob Dhillon, president and CEO, Mainstreet Equity Corp.

Pradeep Sood, Fandango! Bhangra co-chair, with Eileen Greene, VP, HKMB International.

Ron Rosenthal, president, Royce Metal Products, and his wife, Cyndi.

Remy Babra.

Inga Skaya, Miss Universe Canada 2007.

citylife

Parties, Culture & Society

Saris and soup cans

Bridgepoint Health; Children's Museum

AMORYN ENGEL

The scent of spice filled the ballroom of the Four Seasons Toronto recently at Fandango! Bhangra, a fundraising gala for Bridgepoint Health. The Indian theme kicked the dress code up a notch, as patrons from the Indo-Canadian community, socialites and hospital executives donned saris in every jewel-toned colour imaginable.

Among those in attendance were the event's honorary chair Surjit Babra, Ramesh Chotai, Vasu Chanchlani, Paul and Gina Godfrey, Max and Heather Gotlieb, Senator Jerry Grafstein and his wife, Carol, Aditya Jha, Catherine Nugent, Harry Rosen, Consul General of India Preeti Saran, and Isadore and Rosalie Sharp.

"The individuals and organizations that have come together to make Fandango! Bhangra a success have brought us even closer to realizing our vision of redefining what a hospital can be," said Marian Walsh, president and CEO of Bridgepoint Health.

The $435,000 raised by Fandango! Bhangra will support the creation of Bridgepoint Health's new complex-rehabilitation hospital — part of Bridgepoint's $60-million "Life.Changes." campaign.

Earlier this spring, art curator Marla Wasser and her husband, Larry, hosted an avant-garde art brunch at their home. The purpose of the brunch was to draw attention to a special exhibit, curated by Marla herself, at the Children's Museum of Waterloo Region. After a wonderful morning spent sipping mimosas and touring the Wasser's private art collection, the group boarded a luxury bus and headed for Waterloo where they were treated to an exhibit featuring 60 of Andy Warhol's most iconic works — everything from Campbell's soup cans to Mick to Mao to Marilyn. Alongside the Warhols hung works by contemporary artists, all directly inspired by the great maestro of pop art. This portion of the exhibit, called The Art, Inspiration and Appropriation of Andy Warhol, represents "a completely original collection of works that will serve to demonstrate how Warhol's impact continues to resonate in art and pop culture today," said the museum's CEO, David Marskell.

The colourful crowd included Canadian art aficionado Popsy Johnstone, Honey and Barry Sherman, chairman and CEO, Apotex Inc., Ian Delaney, chairman and CEO, Sherritt International, and his wife, Kiki Delaney, president, C.A. Delaney Capital, Susan Harris and David Kassie, chairman and CEO, Genuity Capital Markets, Dr. Paul Marks and Dr. Shawna Granovsky, Sue and Perry Dellelce, partner, Wildeboer Dellelce LLP, Linda and Kevin O'Leary, O'Leary Funds, and Smidar and Ed Waitzer, senior partner, Stikeman Elliot LLP.

Weekend Post
amoryne@nationalpost.com

PHOTOS BY AMORYN ENGEL

Sartorial wizard Harry Rosen and Jon Love, managing partner and CEO, KingSett Capital.

Philanthropic duo Max and Heather Gotlieb.

SkyLink Group chairman Surjit Babra, honorary chair of Fandango! Bhangra, with event co-chair Ann Kerwin.

David Marskell, CEO, Children's Museum of Waterloo Region, with Marla Wasser, curator of the Art, Inspiration and Appropriation of Andy Warhol exhibit.

Catherine Nugent, Bridgepoint Health Foundation.

Derek Wasser, with his father, Larry Wasser, president, L.W. Capital Corp.

Rubix Cube artist Robbie Mackinnon and Barbara Bertozzi Castelli, director, Leo Castelli Gallery (New York).

Tiana Koffler Boyman, chair, Koffler Centre of the Arts, and her husband, Marc, president, Boyman Productions.

Harrison Schindel listening to music at the Children's Museum of Waterloo Region.

Carly Chalom with Rubix Cube Campbell's Soup Can, which her family donated to Waterloo's Children's Museum.

One of the Fandango! Bhangra entertainers.

William Schindel.